THE BOTANICAL GARDENS

The Botanical Gardens, containing approximately 50,000 plants, represent over thirty-five years of development. In the collections are rare and unusual evergreens and deciduous shrubs and trees from every continent. Fifty of the 200 acres comprising the estate are open to visitors; the remainder is used for experimental purposes. Studding the broad lawns are many fine specimens of California native oaks. The large mesa oak between the Art Gallery and the Library is about 200 years old and has a spread of 100 feet.

Oriental Garden. A small canyon transformed into an oriental garden with traditional ornaments. The moon bridge with its weeping elm provides the center of interest. In the bellhouse is an eighteenth-century bronze bell. Floral features are wisteria vines, rhododendrons, flowering peach, plum, and cherry. AZALEAS and CAMELLIAS are each present in 100 varieties, here as well as north of the Art Gallery.

Desert Plant Garden. Fifteen acres contain the largest collection of mature specimens of cacti and other succulents, growing out-of-doors, in the world. Begun in 1907 as a half-acre garden, the collection now numbers over 25,000 plants, representing 2,500 species and varieties. The most numerous and spectacular group is that of the cacti, native to the Western Hemisphere; they bloom in the spring and summer. Hundreds of succulents other than cacti, notably the South African aloes, provide color in the winter months.

CYCAD COLLECTION. About 50 specimens of these aged varieties from Asia, Australia, Japan, Mexico, and South Africa grow near the Art Gallery. Some resemble tree ferns; others, palms.

PALM COLLECTION. Two hundred specimens, collected from both hemispheres, occupy two acres between the Art Gallery and the Desert Plant Garden.

THE LIBRARY

The Library building was completed in 1920. In addition to the exhibit rooms, there are rooms for staff and research workers, and two air-conditioned vaults for irreplaceable material. The rare-book vault contains approximately 150,000 items; the manuscript stack houses about one million letters and documents. The great majority of the books and manuscripts were collected by Mr. Huntington between 1907 and 1927.

The collections center on English and American history and literature. A selection of manuscripts and printed books of general interest is on permanent display; among the principal items are:

The Ellesmere manuscript of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, made about 1410

The Gutenberg Bible (Mainz, about 1450-55), the first printed Bible and the earliest large book produced, in Europe, with movable types

The first book printed in the English language, The Recuyell of the Histories of Troye; printed at Bruges, by Caxton and Mansion, in 1475

The first collected edition of Shakespeare's plays, printed in 1623, known as the "First Folio"

The "Richard King Portolano," made about 1502; one of the earliest manuscript maps showing a portion of the American continent

Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography in his own handwriting, 1771-78

There are also frequent special exhibitions of literary and historical interest.

THE ARABELLA D. HUNTINGTON MEMORIAL ART COLLECTION is in the west wing of the Library building. It was established by Mr. Huntington as a memorial to his wife. In the Renaissance Room is a small collection of Italian and Flemish paintings of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. In the French Sculpture Gallery are seventeen pieces of eighteenth-century sculpture. In other rooms are collections of French furniture, tapestries, and porcelains of the same period.

THE ART GALLERY

Completed in 1910 as a residence for the Founder, the building has been only slightly altered and extended. It is of modified Georgian architecture. The rooms of the house are interesting as reproductions of eighteenth-century French and English models.

There are seven principal galleries and fifteen smaller galleries and halls, in which are shown approximately 400 objects of art, including about 65 paintings, and tapestries, furniture, rugs, clocks, porcelains, and miniatures produced in England and France in the eighteenth century. Virtually all of these were acquired by Mr. Huntington between 1910 and 1927.

The principal collection is a representative group of eighteenth-century British paintings, including characteristic works in portraiture and landscape. Among the canvases exhibited are ten paintings by Gainsborough, nine by Reynolds, eleven by Romney, and three by Lawrence. Constable, Hogarth, Hoppner, Kneller, Raeburn, Ramsay, Stuart, and Turner, among others, are represented.

The most popular paintings include "Sarah Siddons as The Tragic Muse" by Sir Joshua Reynolds, "Pinkie" by Sir Thomas Lawrence, and "The Blue Boy" by Thomas Gainsborough.

The principal rooms are the New Gallery; the Dining Room, with its original marble fireplace of about 1755, and set of Georgian chairs; the Small Drawing Room, containing miniature portraits by English painters; the Drawing Room, with a collection of French snuff and sweetmeat boxes; and the Library Room, with Beauvais tapestries and French tapestry-covered chairs and settees. In the Main Hall are cases containing Chelsea porcelains. On the upper floor are an original Georgian Drawing Room and additional examples of English furniture.

The Library, Art Gallery, and Botanical Gardens, together with an endowment for their maintenance, were the gift of Henry Edwards Huntington (1850-1927), who accumulated a fortune largely through development of real estate in Southern California. In an indenture dated August 30, 1919, Mr. Huntington deeded the institution as a free research library, art gallery, and botanical garden to a self-perpetuating board of trustees, for the use and benefit of all qualified persons. In January, 1928, the exhibitions were opened to the public. Since then over two million visitors have been received; during the same period about 5,000 accredited research workers have used the Library. Nearly seventy volumes of studies have been published by the Library.

Let Us Have A Church

"Let us have a church that dares
Imitate the heroism of Jesus;
Seek inspiration as he sought it;
Judge the past as he;
Act on the present like him;
Pray as he prayed;
Work as he wrought
Live as he lived.
Let us have a church for the whole of man:
Truth for the mind,
Good work for the hands.
Love for the heart,
And for the soul, that aspiration after perfection,
That unaltering faith in God,
Which, like lightning in the clouds,
Shines brightest when elsewhere it is most dark."

—Theodore Parker

Smart, of Philadelphia, Editor-in-Chief of the New Curriculum, will speak at the Conference session each morning at 11:00 o'clock. Dr. William E. A WORTHWHILE RESOLVE from the "Chicago Presbyterian": "Before vacation days I will pay my church pledge, for the expenses of the church must go on even when I am away. It would make me most uncomfortable while keeping cool in some lovely mountain spot to know that back home the church treasurer was sweating it out over how to keep the church bills paid."

20th CENTURY MIRACLE

AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON, Founder, who ministered to those in need, spiritually and physically. Born in 1890, consecrated her life to Christ at the age of seventeen, spent several years in missionary work in China and ten years in evangelistic work throughout America. Known throughout the world as the greatest evangelist of the 20th Century, the Lord led her to Los Angeles, where she built - -

ANGELUS TEMPLE, a Class A fireproof structure, valued at $1,500,000.00, seating 5,300, with two choir lofts accommodating 100. The auditorium is flanked by eight beautiful stained glass windows valued at $1,500.00 each, has the largest unsupported dome on the North American continent, displays a hugh frieze above the mighty three-manual K'imball Pipe Organ whose grill was designed as a result of a vision Sister McPherson had concerning the second coming of Christ. There are 35 services conducted weekly in the Temple, the Angelus Auditorium of the Bible College, and in other auditoriums throughout the two buildings. The revival spirit present at the dedication of this great edifice has never diminished nor been confined to Angelus Temple because of the crection of - -

L.I.F.E. BIBLE COLLEGE, from which over 4,000 graduates have gone to many parts of the world, building over 450 branch churches and 200 mission stations. It is a fully-accredited college, recognized by the United States Government training veterans under the G.I. Bill of Rights, conferring degrees upon the completion of the four year course. In further expanse - -

COMMISSARY department of Angelus Temple was formed and has fed, clothed and aided over one million persons without "red tape." It has also obtained employment for thousands thereby making them self-sustaining. Realizing the spiritual needs of humanity must also be met, the - -

PRAYER TOWER was set in order in 1923 and has operated unceasingly since its inception on a 24 hour schedule, in shifts of two hours each, women praying in the daytime and men at the night hours. Over 20,000 requests for prayer are received monthly with thousands of definite answers to prayer recorded. The tremendous responsibility of this great work was upon the shoulders of Aimee Semple McPherson until her untimely passing September, 1944, when - -

DR. ROLF K. McPHERSON, beloved son of the Founder, assumed the pastorate of Angelus Temple, and the presidency of the International Church of the Foursquare Gospel and L.I.F.E. Bible College. The keen judgment, God-given wisdom, and esteemed leadership of this young man has resulted in a spirited growth throughout the Organization. There are over one hundred regular Angelus Temple employees who have pledged their unwavering confidence to their leader and are augmented by many part time personnel, some of whom donate their services with the ultimate purpose being the propogation of the Foursquare Gospel to the uttermost parts of the vast universe.

The vision of the Founder has been further increased through the untiring efforts of Dr. McPherson as President of - -

On this trip, when the vessels are in port, you will see the very latest type of fighting ships: Carriers, Light Cruisers and Destroyers, as well as L.C.T.'s, L.C.I.'s, PT Boats, Submarines and Submarine Salvage Vessels all the while, Fighter Planes and Flying Boats will be soaring overhead.

You gain full advantage of this great harbor trip by having guides with a vast knowledge of nautical matters. They are students of Uncle Sam's Navy—of aquatic birds—of fisheries—of marine life. For your pleasure they will describe little intimacies in the colorful, diversified life of a busy harbor.
